Russell C. Hill Award Fact Sheet, Web Site; Russell C. Hill Award Plaque, No. 17434.

The Russell C. Hill Award was established in 1999 to honor Hill's outstanding achievement in the character education field. Russell Chilton Hill was a prominent San Antonio, Texas businessman who spent much of his time and fortune in promoting Character Education based on his "Freedoms Code" which earned him the Freedom Foundation's Honor Medal. Hill made a pledge to fight for public support in the development of character in the youth of our nation. Learning for Life establishes this award to honor Hill's outstanding achievement in the character education field.

William H. Spurgeon, III Award Fact Sheet, Web Site; Award, William H. Spurgeon, III Award Plaque, No. 17433.

The William H. Spurgeon, III Award was developed in 1971 in honor of the man who is regarded as the major leader in the development of special interest Exploring. Mr. Spurgeon was a business executive at the Irvine Company in Southern California who personally organized many special interest posts in the 1960's. Mr. Spurgeon served for many years as a member of the National Council Executive Board and national Exploring Committee. His pioneering efforts led to the present contemporary Exploring Program. He devoted much of the late 1960's to promoting Exploring and is particularly remembered as a dynamic speaker for Exploring Impact Plan luncheons across America. Mr. Spurgeon passed away in 1970.

Young American Award Council Application, Web Site; Young American Award Council Plaque, No. 17668; Young American National Award (5/$5,000 unrestricted award), Web Site.

First presented in 1968, the award is given to young adults between the ages of 15 and 25 who have achieved excellence in the fields of art, athletics, business, education, government, humanities, literature, music, religion, science, or service and have been involved in service to their community, state, or country that adds to the quality of life. Each council selects and submits their top nominee for consideration for the five national awards.

CURRICULUM and WORK SITE PROGRAMS

1. Elementary Program—is for kindergarten through sixth grade youth. The curriculum for each grade level consists of 60 lesson plans designed to reinforce social, ethical, and academic skills and support the core curriculum. The lesson plans for each grade level are organized into nine appropriate character building traits—respect, responsibility, honesty, caring/fairness, perseverance, self-discipline, courage, citizenship, and life skills. Each lesson plan also includes suggested parent involvement extension as well as reflection questions for use by the classroom teacher.

Example: Classroom teacher selects "Responsibility" character trait and then selects the "Decision Making" theme from the list of lesson plans organized under the character trait of responsibility. The "Decision Making" lesson plan used by the teacher supplements language arts core curricula. The Classroom teacher conducts a reflection exercise using the suggested reflection questions. The parental extension asks parents to talk with their child about daily decisions the parents make, and about daily decisions the child makes.

2. Special Needs Program—teaches youth with mental disabilities the life skills they need to achieve self-sufficiency.

3. Seventh and Eighth Grade Program—is designed to provide community role models to motivate and interact with the youth. There is a series of 50 interactive workshops that help youth develop and assess the personal skills and values needed to make future career choices. A Life Choices Character Program Game on CD-ROM, which gives youth insight into personal decisions, educational goals, and career choices, compliments the program materials.

4. Senior High School Program—consists of two parts. The first is a series of thirty-five interactive workshops that teach the practical skills necessary to acquire a job and stay employed. The second part is a series of career seminars presented by community representatives. By linking these classroom-based seminars to the worksite-based Exploring program, high schools can help youth make the school-to-careers transition a reality.

5. Exploring Program—is a worksite-based career education program for young men and women who are 14 (and have completed the eighth grade) through 20 years old.. Local community organizations initiate a career specific Explorer post by matching their employees and career program resources to the interests of young people in the community. Explorer post programs are based on five areas of emphasis: career opportunities, life skills, service learning, character education, and leadership experience.
